would love to know if I am making a dumb mistake like forgetting to allocate any memory to my CStringList. If that is the case, please tell me! My test program compiles with no warnings or errors and runs successfully. A: Your code works on my machine, without warnings or errors. What do you see exactly? It could be any of these: Your test program is not compiled with debug information, or it is built with optimisation, or the PDB file isn't present for some reason. The code in the CStringList::Append method has bugs. There is a variable named "m_cache" somewhere else in your code. I know it's been a long time, but I still like a certain photo. For those in the loop, I used to...well....you know. But not anymore. I still have intentions to go back to this topic. However, I have encountered a slight reality distortion problem. If you couldn't already tell, I'm not in a great place right now 648931e174
